

Is it a “Monster” or a “Miracle”?
Writing this ad gave me double-trouble;
I couldn’t decide what the heck to call it!

When I was writing this I toggled between miracle and monster. First I tried ‘monster’ because this plan actually produces monstrous income. Then I tried ‘miracle’ because it’s such an appropriate term for something producing miraculous income for such little effort. In the end I decided to use both words and leave the final decision up to you. Once you see what it does for you, take your pick, because it really is both a ‘monster’ and a ‘miracle’. - “The orders are filled electronically by the company. There’s no inventory for you to stock and no orders for you to fill. This business is designed to create freedom in your life, not to tie you down.”
- “High conversion system. We have one of the highest converting systems ever. You never sell and you never present — all you do is invite. The 30-minute online webinar presentation closes all of the sales for you.”
- “You’ll have absolutely no competition. There is nothing like this anywhere in the home-based business industry.”

“This is a Ground Floor Opportunity. In this industry those who get in early make more money. It’s as simple as that. You can’t dilly-dally. You’ve got to jump in and start now!”
